Development, Civil Society and Faith-Based Organizations: Bridging the Sacred and the Secular (International Political Economy Series) Gerard Clarke, Michael Jennings

International aid and development is increasingly channelled through religious groups and this collection examines the role that these faith-based organizations play in managing international aid, providing services, such as health and education, defending human rights and protecting democracy. Focusing on Asia, Africa and the Middle East, this book argues that greater engagement with faith communities and organizations is needed, particularly in achieving the Millennium Development Goals, and questions the traditional secularism that has underpinned development policy and practice in the North.
