Introduce the reader to a different view of mathematics. The world of mathematics is rich with vivid images and provocative ideas. There is beauty in math and it often surfaces in the simplest ideas. Establish the connection between mathematics and the world that surrounds us. Topics target the mathematics of art, social science, management science, probability, statistics and problem solving using real-world applications. The text is designed to help answer the often heard questions "What is this stuff good for?" and "When will we ever use this stuff?"
